Ranbanka Palace, Jodhpur unveils 'The Jodhana Wing' for guests

Ranbanka Palace, the heritage hotels in Jodhpur, Rajasthan and residence of Maharajadhiraj Sir Ajit Singh's grandson Raj Kumar KV Singh announced the launch of 'The Jodhana Wing'. Taking heritage holidays to a whole new level, the Jodhana wing offers an unparalleled royal experience exponentially heightened by access to the royal family's own chefs and craftsmen.

Kanwarani Shweta Rathore, Director Ranbanka Palace said, "The addition of the new wing and implementation of its unique concept has been a gratifying journey. We have succeeded in developing a comprehensive Royal experience which integrates the many intricacies of this near-forgotten lifestyle."

Overlooking Ranbanka's famed courtyard and flanked by Umaid Bhawan Palace on one side and Mehrangarh fort on the other, the Jodhana wing houses 15 exclusive suites. Guests of the Jodhana wing can partake in rare pleasures hitherto inaccessible to travelers and visitors. Antiques from the best craftsmen in the region can be made available in the comfort of your room.

Staying at the Jodhana wing also opens doors to many other royal pastimes and passions. Guests will receive passes to special events and parties including Polo matches taking place in Jodhpur. They can experience Signature Spa therapies of the Rajputana era in the comfort of their room or by the Baradari at the pool side. The restaurants at Ranbanka Palace are famous among locals and travelers alike. Special performances by kaalbela dancers, puppet shows and traditional music recitals, private dinners soaking the magnificent views from the many terraces or the lush gardens. A dedicated team of specialists ensures a bespoke holiday pre-empting and addressing every need and whim.
